K. OF C. ACTIVITIES APPRECIATED

Uncle Sam's men are being transferred so fast that the different workers at Camp Zachary Taylor hardly get a chance to get acquainted before they are sent to some other camp. During the past week most of the last draft of 17,000 men have departed for points unknown. As the men were in quarantine most of the time they were here some of them were never out of the camp.

Private Bud O'Brien, the well known ball player of the Twin City League, has been sent to West Point along with Earl Flynn, also of the Twin City League. While they were here they played several games of baseball at the Depot Brigade, the whole team being Twin City players—Rice, Scully, Curran, Higgins, O'Brien, Flynn, Thiemann, Burke and Gorman making up the line-up.

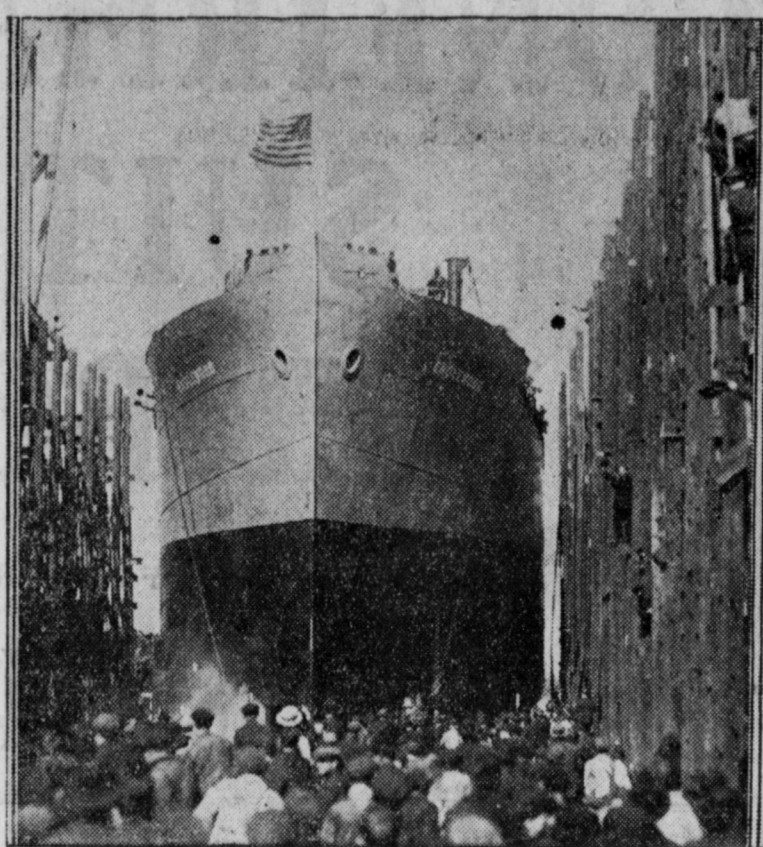

The attendance at mass on Sunday continues to be a very hard proposition to handle. Last Sunday eleven masses were read at the camp and still some of the boys did not get to church. Chaplain Gallagher, in charge of the Knights of Columbus work, is still trying to make arrangements for a later mass than 9 o'clock at building No. 3 so as to accommodate the men who may be on duty, and also for the conveniences of the nurses at the base hospital.

Secretary Krull has been assigned to the base hospital to assist Secretary Drury in this branch of the work. Although the last draft brought in about 17,000 men, there was very little sickness among the soldiers and the hospital has less patients than at any time since the camp started. Lieut. S. R. Rudolph, of the 335th Infantry, has been granted a leave of absence to go to his home in Pittsburgh, where he expects to recuperate from the injury to his knee, which he sustained in a fall from a motorcycle. Lieut. Rudolph has made many friends here in Louisville and he takes the best wishes of all who know him.

During the week Capt. Shaffer, of the 325th Machine Gun Company, wrote to the K. C. Secretary, saying that all his miss the good people of Louisville, as the activities at Camp Sherman are very tame. Chaplain McPheters, Presbyterian, also wrote a very nice letter to the Knights of Columbus workers here, saying they were rather lonesome at Camp Sherman and that they were missing their friends in Louisville. These letters from other camps make the Secretaries here feel like their work is appreciated, and they have been going from 6 in the morning until 11 at night every day since the last men arrived. Too much praise cannot be given the Secretaries of the Knights of Columbus work for giving up their positions and going into the war work for 15 months, but this is the spirit that will win the war.

Last Thursday night was the big night for entertainment on the outside stages. The program of the Columbus buildings, a programme of twelve vaudeville acts being given at two places, the performers being transferred from one building to another in the K. C. machine. This is the first time this system has been tried at the camp, and it was so successful it will be carried out again this week. The plan gives more men the chance to see the performers when they work at two buildings on the same night. The programme was made up of Forrest Thompson, "Ragtime King," who almost created a riot at both places; Sergeant Flynn, who did a "milkmaid's dance" amid great applause; then Private Stevens, who had been performing on the Keith circuit, did his straight-jacket act, and although he had a very sore arm his performance was remarkable. Little Miss Jane Overton danced her way into the hearts of the soldiers, being required to dance several numbers at both places. Miss Moran rendered the numbers on the violin and Miss Helen Landrigan played the piano. Miss Lillian Treandue scored again very heavily, although she has been out almost every week, and will come back again in the new buildings. A feature of the work of Miss Moran on the violin was the boys joining in and singing when she played "Over There." Miss Norton made a hit with the musical act and will be welcomed again in the near future.

Secretary Kennedy performed one of his funny monologues, creating great laughter with each joke. Kennedy is a grand success as a K. C. Secretary. The performances were brought to a close with a trio of musicians, composed of Secretary Joseph Ryan, Miss Clara Eilers and Mr. Bacaliopt, who performed on the banjo. Mr. and Mrs. Roy sang several numbers and Mrs. Roy led the soldiers in singing the "Star Spangled Banner" and three other numbers. The entertainment made a hit with the soldiers, as many of them wanted to know when we would have another. On Friday and Saturday nights the boys were treated to moving pictures on the outside screen. Next week will see another big programme, which will be reviewed Saturday. Good singers and dancers are badly needed at the camp, as there are five nights to entertain the soldiers and the Knights of Columbus will have five buildings working soon. This line of entertainment is carried on very extensively at Camp Taylor in all K. C. activities.

Sunday morning at 9 o'clock mass will be celebrated at Y. M. C. A. building No. 158 by Chaplain Finnegan, formerly of Notre Dame University. At this mass a special sermon for soldiers will be preached by Chaplain E. A. Baxter, formerly attached to St. Louis Bertrand church in this city. The congregational singing will be presided over by Chaplain Morley. Chaplains Fealey and McVeath will assist in hearing confessions. The other priests attending the Chaplains' Training School at Camp Taylor will officiate at Knights of Columbus auditorium and Buildings Nos. 2 and 3.

FINDING THE MISSING.

At the present time the average number of letters that are found every day in the Pope's mail bag in connection with the Missing Soldiers' Bureau comes to the pretty total of 2,000. Catholics, Protestants, people of no fixed form of religious belief, take advantage of the Pontiff's charity in finding out the addresses of their dear ones who are missing. They want to know whether their missing relative is dead or a prisoner, and if the latter the exact place. Who is better able to give them this bit of information than the Pontiff, who has representatives in all centers to send information to the three dozen clerics and laymen whose services are given here gratuitously in manning the bureau? You may write your application in any tongue. Give full name, rank, regiment, where and when last seen—all in a few brief words. Then your own name and address clearly so that in a month or a year a note may be sent to tell your soldier friend has been found.

NEW CANON LAW.

Announcement has just been made that P. J. Kenedy & Sons, of Barclay street, New York, have been authorized by the Vatican to publish in this country the complete edition with full notes of "Codex Iuris Canonici," which is the official text of the new canon law of the Catholic church, copies of which will be ready for delivery in August.

KEYSTONERS STILL PREFORMING

It was stated in these columns a few weeks ago that Republican prospects in the nation, State and city were not very bright, and the Indiana State Democratic convention this week went so far as to "josh" National Chairman Hays, of the Republican Committee, and Teddy Roosevelt, who has the Presidential nomination clinched, although many of the Republican leaders now realize that they have made a bad bargain. The old Rough Rider is getting in worse and worse with the American public since he began his knocking campaign against the administration's conduct of the war, and no later than the other day the Library Trustees of Fulton, Mo., barred the Kansas City Star from the library because of Teddy's peevish editorials against the President and his War Department. The tough part of it for the Republican party is they dassen't drop him as a candidate, as they fear he will scuttle the ship as in 1912. In the State the outlook is also very gloomy. Senator Ollie James' nomination and election being predicted without a struggle, while the Republicans have a death grapple on between two dyes—Brumer and Bethurum—for the nomination, and down in the Eleventh district a real old mountain feud is on for Power's seat in Congress.

As for the situation in Louisville, the writer is not hardened or unkind enough to blame the present Bolshevik administration now in power on the Republican party. The accidental Mayor is a former Democrat, the Judge of the Police Court and was a Democratic candidate in 1905. Baskin, of the County Commissioners, was likewise, and Brumleve, of the Board of Works, bolted the primary. The real old line Republicans have looked on with gloomy Sen. administration and men prominent in the party the last few years, like Herman Monroe, Wood Axton and Dr. Lewis Ryans, are persona non grata with the Bolsheviks. Hardly a day goes by without a showup of the so-called "efficiency" and "reform" administration. One day it is the City Hospital, the next day the jail or fire department, but every day, and Sunday, too, there is an expose of some branch of the Keystone police department. At the City Hospital it is charged a man died and his body was about to be interred in Potter's field when the family learned that he had been dead five days. Members of the dead man's family claim that they had been unable to see him at the hospital during his illness and that in answer to their query were always told that he was getting along nicely and was improving. Possibly, like the old story, the patient died of improvements.

Even the jail inmates are rebelling against the "efficiency" of the present administration and say that while they believe in helping Mr. Hoover they don't think they ought to go fifty hours without food. Under Charley Foster, the Democratic Jailer, nothing but good was ever heard from the jail, educational and manual training classes being featured and widely commented on. Now we get stories of poor food, prisoners running riot and taking possession of top tier, and this is the second grand jury in the past few months to have the jail management on the griddle. The new Jailer represents an element now popular in all branches of the present administration. He was formerly a motorman on the Bank street line. An attempt has been made to save the fire department by keeping some of the real firemen, reappointing some of the old ones, but "rub" Captains have more than overbalanced the latter. The Louisville Herald purported to give figures on the fire department's efficiency, so many await with interest how the Herald will explain the proposed raise in fire insurance of the Board of Underwriters and the fact that because of the present fire department Louisville will be ranked as a third-class city.

As stated above, every day is a day of knocks for the Keystone police, but all the knocks are interspersed with a laugh or funny quip at the expense of our comedy guardians. A resident of Hamilton avenue writes the Kentucky Irish American complaining about the bridge at Beargrass creek and Hamilton avenue, but ends up his complaint with "don't send a Keystone policeman to investigate as he will get lost or fall in the creek." In the West End a story comes from a passenger on a Main street car. The car went dead, but three Keystone police who were on the car gave themselves away by coming forward and reminding the trouble in fifty showing that as police they were good street car men. On an Oak street car the other day a Keystone gave away his former occupation by stepping out on the front platform and working the lever to open the side door only as a motorman could do and spitting in the street while the door flopped back. You don't have to see their celluloid collars to know that they were former "hick" street car men. At the ball park one of them contentedly munched a bag of peanuts standing alongside of a Lieutenant and Sergeant, later on going on the steps of a box seat landing to smoke a cigarette, possibly being hungry for a smoke, seeing the Mayor smoking his pipe in a private box. Two of the Keystone police hearing of the orders about arresting loafers accosted a man on their beat the other day and in response to what he was doing answered that he was loafing. Without another word they grabbed hold of him just as you see it on the screen and hustled him to jail, despite his kicks and protests. It developed after he was in jail that the man was a new fireman and was loafing on his regular off day.

All of this must be very discouraging to Col. Petty, the Chief, who gives promise of kicking over the traces and refusing to let "Mr. Chesley" make a goat of him. Col. Petty realizes that the public in kicking on the joke police are kicking to him and not holding "Mr. Chesley" responsible. It must have been awful embarrassing for the Chief to sit in the National Police Convention and hear reports from the doings of real police departments while his Keystoneers at home are becoming the laughing stock of the country. Before Col. Petty quits, and the car goes to the station, he will grant the request made by many, and that is call out the entire Keystone force for a parade. It goes without saying that a parade of this kind would even the best of us. The Chief and his horrid "Go ahead, Chief, and be a good fellow." One of the traffic Sergeants, a former motorman, called at the office of the Kentucky Irish American this past week and said that he wanted some papers to show to the motormen and conductors, and said that calling "em 'Keystoneers' made Republican votes and that he and his fellow police just "laughed" at it. He might have added that there are many laughing at it, if only people not enjoying are those who have been the victims of burglaries or assaults, and then again some taxpayers who still have to pay their real police for taxes paid. They have no sense of humor.

NARROW ESCAPE.

Capt. James W. Kinnearney and Mrs. Kinnearney, who were seriously injured in an automobile accident near Shelbyville last week, are both improving and their friends will rejoice to learn that they are able to return to their home. Capt. Kinnearney has not been confined to his bed, but it will be some time before Mrs. Kinnearney is able to be out. They were on their way to Cincinnati when their automobile skidded over an embankment, both having a narrow escape from death.

FORTY HOURS.

The Forty Hours' devotion will be held in the city next at St. Agnes church on the Newburg road, opening with high mass tomorrow morning and coming to a solemn close Tuesday. Fathers from the Sacred Heart Retreat will conduct the services and preach the sermons both morning and evening.

CONSCRIPTION TALK RELAXING

According to Associated Press dispatches from Dublin a proclamation issued last Saturday prohibits all public meetings and processions in the Irish capital until further notice.

From the same source comes news that at present there is somewhat of a lull in the political situation in Ireland. Agitation against conscription has relaxed in the face of the Government proclamation calling for voluntary recruits, and no attempt to apply the draft is expected before October, and then only in the event of conspicuous failure to obtain the necessary number by enlistment.

The visit of protest contemplated by the Lord Mayor of Dublin to President Wilson has been indefinitely postponed. He is "holding himself in readiness" to go to Washington when the occasion arises, but he has no expectation at present that the occasion ever will arise.

Suppression of illegal drilling proceeds daily, and it is greatly helped by the Government's warning that if the drilling continues everywhere is being given to young men against assembling themselves in uniforms.

A curious feature of the prosecutions is the number of instances where the accused have brothers or other relatives, sometimes two or three, now serving in the army in France.

It is not intended at present to bring to trial the Sinn Fein arrested at Whitehouse. Their imprisonment is made regular under the regulations of the defense of the realm act and none of them thus far has taken advantage of the sections which enable him to appeal against imprisonment. The immediate purpose is to make a success of the recruiting campaign. The military authorities are handing it over entirely to civilians drawn from all the political parties. Most notable among these workers is Sir Horace Plunkett, Chairman of the recent Irish home rule convention at Dublin. Local committees will be formed on this principle in every district.

Pro-ally propaganda, hitherto entirely neglected in Ireland, will be undertaken and an attempt will be made by suitable literature to explain to the Irish people the real issues of the war.

The members of the Irish Nationalist party have decided to return to Parliament next week. The Irish Nationalists temporarily withdrew from attendance from Parliament as a protest against the Government's proposal to apply conscription to Ireland. Recent dispatches from Dublin indicated that the Irish party's representatives would return to the House of Commons to take part in the debate, particularly in Sinn Fein arrests. The situation that induced Irish members to withdraw has been modified by the Government's proclamation calling for voluntary recruits in Ireland.

LONG PAST

Coining of Significant Inscriptions For Building Almost Lost Art.

In Bygone Days These Inscriptions Spoke an Eloquent Language.

Founders Who Express Wholesome Thought in Stone and Metal.

ITALY OFFERS MANY EXAMPLES

Above the entrance to the new Juvenile Court and prison building in St. Louis one may read the inscription, "Children's Building." The building is used for the purposes of the court mentioned and contains also the detention rooms for juvenile delinquents. The inscription is therefore, to say the least, poorly chosen, inasmuch as the name "Children's Building" will be understood by almost every thinking person to mean either a structure in honor of the children of the city or a haven of refuge for them. Scarcely anyone would consider it happily chosen when applied to a building set aside for court procedures and for punishment.

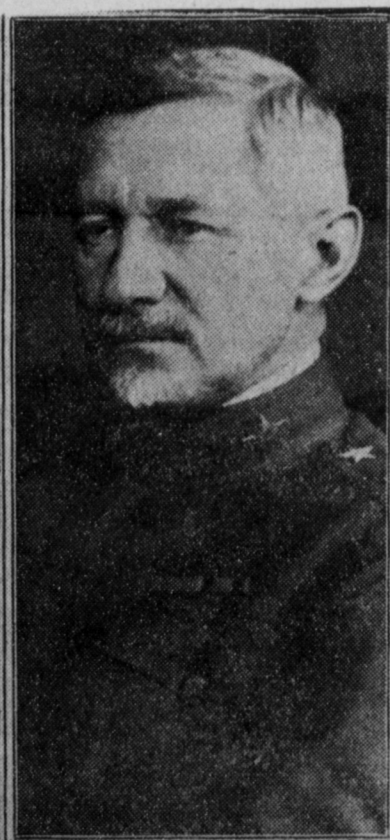

As in this instance, so one may notice in many others also the well-nigh utter absence of the art of coining suitable dedications, pregnant with truth, epigrammatic in expression and classic in form. In the olden days this art was not unknown. Italy, to mention but one country in which this art was understood, offers many examples of beautiful and terse expressions in stone and metal. The founders and builders of edifices devoted to purposes of reform or of charity knew how to express a wholesome thought in the inscriptions they had placed on such buildings. A classical sentence met the eyes of the boys and girls confined in the reformatory which formed a part of the great Hospital St. Michele in Rome. It read, "It is of little advantage to restrain the bad by punishment, unless you render them good by discipline." The British prison reformer John Howard, who quotes this sentence in his famous work on "The State of Prisons in England and Wales," calls it "admirable," and says that it "expresses the grand purpose of all civil policy relative to criminals." N. H. Julius, a noted criminologist, terms this maxim one of the most remarkable he has seen anywhere.

Equally appropriate and significant is the inscription which Pope Clement XI, the founder of this institution (1704), has graven over the entrance and which reads: "Pope Clement XI, Supreme Pontiff, for the correction of profligate youth; that they, when idle, were injurious, when restrained, might be useful to the State." Pope Innocent X, who built the "Great Prison" in Rome in 1655, also had a suitable legend inscribed over its entrance, saying: "To Justice and Clemency. For the more secure and better custody of criminals." Pope Innocent X erected this new prison.

Thus the purpose of these institutions was clearly stated in these inscriptions. Pope Clement XII, likewise stated the character of an addition which he had built, in 1735, to the Hospital S. Michele in Rome, in these words: "For restraining the licentiousness and punishing the crimes of youth."

But besides the purpose, such inscriptions frequently also voiced a prayer, an admonition or a warning. In Rome, near San Angelo, the cemetery for executed criminals was kept by the monks of the Confraternita della Misericordia, to which all nobles belonged, who devoted themselves to the care of men condemned to death, accompanied them to the gallows and buried their bodies. On the wall of the building under which the bodies were interred one could read the prayer: "O Lord, when thou shalt come to judge, do not condemn us." In Florence, over the entrance to the prison "Delle Stinche," the words were engraved: "Oportet Misereari." "It behooves us to be merciful." In Naples, in the Hospital of the Bonfratelli, or Brothers of St. John of God, the following quotation could be seen on one of the walls of the patients' dining-room: "I was hungry, and ye gave me meat," etc. And in Genoa the boys and girls confined for correction in the Alcega Hospital had constantly before their eyes the words: "Silence and Obedience"—certainly a helpful admonition.

Such was the language of inscriptions in that country at that time—clear, precise, appropriate. But the inscriptions do not only convey their own message; some of them tell us today that the idea of punishment of evil doing for the sake of reform, the principle of correction rather than of mere punishment, and the tempering of justice with mercy—that this idea is by no means a modern innovation, as some leaders of the philanthropic movement would have us believe. It is to be hoped that the Catholic view on corrective punishment be more generally understood; it would likewise be deplorable that the forgotten art of epigrammatic inscription writing be revived. But both these developments presuppose a return from the superficial thought of the age to a more serious attitude of mind.

DANGEROUS PROPOSAL.

If reports from Berlin may be credited Germany is about to make a great peace offensive. Such a proposal would be more dangerous than the military offensive in which they are now engaged. The American Government and her associates are arrayed in invincible solidarity for military action. A peace offensive can break the lines and influence the masses of the people at home. Everybody wants to see the war ended. The people at home have been the real sufferers and the day on which the war stops will rival in joy the day on which the angels sang to the shepherds on the Judean hills. Whatever the European allies may think or do the United States can not accept a peace that does not mean victory. Had we entered the war to gain territory or trade concessions we could compromise. We are fighting for a moral principle. There is eternal justice back of our cause and with injustice we can make no compromise. Though Germany is ready in a geographical and political sense to make a peace offer it is beaten not because it has arrayed against itself so many great national powers, but because it has to fight the moral and spiritual powers of civilization. The safety of the world and the preservation of human liberty demand the defeat of what Germany stands for. It is a long time since Edmund Burke said it, but it still stands true: "If your enemy offers peace in a moment of success it indicates that he is satisfied with something." We may well "beware of the Danes bearing gifts."

CHILD LABOR.

The setback which the Supreme Court decision in the child labor case gave the important cause of protecting childhood not only for its own sake but for the good of citizenship requires and is now obtaining renewed effort to restore the protections. Because the method of abolishing child labor by refusing its products in interstate commerce was the wrong method does not leave the situation without a remedy and does not make it one which can be viewed with complacency or indifference. Backward communities which will not for themselves recognize the evil and the danger of taking such serious chances with the material of citizenship must be brought under the superior control of the Federal Government.

The protection of childhood and the safeguarding of its opportunities of development are essential for the requirements of the nation. A community does not develop citizenship for its own purposes alone, but for the purposes of the nation. Federal legislation, we are convinced, can be devised which will not use a dangerous method of extending Federal authority and yet will control the situation with regard to child labor.

PAPERS ARE SILENT.

The papers are silent this week with regard to Irish affairs. With the indictment of O'Leary in New York the Sinn Feiners on this side seem to have gone into their shell. The proofs that the British Government were to have produced in regard to the troubles in Ireland are still preserved in His Majesty's archives, where undoubtedly they will remain. This is in accordance with British tradition on Irish questions. Formerly they confined "Irish undesirables" behind the bars, where they not unfrequently remained months without even the outward form of a trial. But the day is dawning when such high-handed proceedings will not be tolerated among the nations.

MEXICO.

The Mexican situation has not improved any during the past month in regard to its relations with the United States. At least one American officer was shot to death and several soldiers are held prisoners at Matamoros by Villa's agents. Negotiations for their release must be carried on by the State Department at Washington and the Federal Government at Mexico City. Such is the order of Gonzales, the commanding officer at Matamoros. One must agree with the True Voice that the home government is now paying the toll for its former friendship toward a cut-throat bandit. Patience may be a virtue, but it has a limit. A terrible day of reckoning may be near at hand and Villa's friends may be unable to carry out their pledges to help him.

SHOULD EXPLAIN.

Charles Ogden, the Republican machine candidate for Congress, lectured last week on why he was a member of the Junior Order. As the Junior Order, an A. P. A. society, proscribes all foreign born citizens, Mr. Ogden should now explain what our attitude should be to the deserving Belgians, French and others who might want to become American citizens after the war. He might also have our American soldiers explain to our allies over there that while they are good enough to associate with now and fight together, nevertheless we don't want any of them to associate with us after the war.

CAN DO NO WRONG.

The friends of the present Board of Education object to politics in selecting the members of the board, but see no wrong in the present members of the board playing politics among themselves in selecting officials.

AIDING THE ENEMY.

Anyone who seeks to involve religious issues with the present war is serving Germany as effectively as if he were exclusively devoting his attention to disabling our transports or blowing up munition plants.

Catholic schools everywhere have now closed a successful year's work. The commencement exercises for elementary schools, high schools, colleges and academies show progress for Catholic education. The results will soon show forth and bring home to all the benefits derived from religious training in the school.

Don't wait to be urged to join the W. S. S. army. What if our men in the trenches waited to be urged?

America as a nation has a clear conscience. That is why she is standing by her Government so well.

FOR ORPHANS' DAY.

The reports of committees at the meeting of friends of the Catholic Orphan Society Monday to prepare for the Fourth of July picnic indicate progress and that the public is making a ready response to requests for donations. Especially flattering was the report of the committee on Liberty bond contributions, which source is expected to yield at least $500 revenue. The cards have been distributed among the parishes in the city with few exceptions, and it is hoped that these few will fall in line and call for their quota within the next few days. It is believed that all parishes should assume the burden of supporting the orphans equally. The Ladies' Committee on Liberty Bonds, of which Mrs. Morgan Parlin is Chairman, has disposed of $200 worth of these bonds alone. The Dairy Lunch Committee will endeavor to duplicate the remarkable success of previous years, and has selected practically the list of experienced workers who have done the work heretofore, and this is a guarantee of success. The admission tickets are being taken care of by Chairman C. L. V. Frank, who has written a letter to every clergyman in the city, asking that the school children be allowed to enter the contest for the sales of these tickets. Three prizes will be given for the largest sales and any boy or girl is eligible to enter the contest. Buttons will be pinned on the coats or waists of friends of the orphans as they enter the church doors next Sunday, and at the parks, etc. The President thanked the Chairman of committees for their ready co-operation and said that the enthusiasm displayed betokened a successful picnic in every respect. Numerous gifts were reported, among them a handsome embroidered bungalow bed quilt donated by Sister Mary Martha, former Superior of St. Thomas' Orphanage. Nearly all the committees have been filled and they are working as a unit in the work in hand.

PLEASED AUDIENCE.

An audience that filled the college auditorium to overflowing enjoyed to the fullest the excellent programme arranged for the annual commencement of St. Xavier's College last night, when thirty-five young men were graduated. The orations of the graduates were well delivered and each received generous applause. Rev. J. J. Cavanaugh, President of Notre Dame University, delivered the principal address of the evening, holding the audience spellbound by his eloquence. Right Rev. Bishop O'Donoghue was the honor guest, and in his brief talk to the boys captured their hearts and those of their friends. The annual alumni address was delivered by Charles Klapheke, who fully maintained the reputation of St. Xavier's College and his class of 1901.

THOSE FIGHTING IRISH.

You know they will fight by the build and the breed of them;

You know by the deeds they have done in the past, they love the country they love as need of them

They'll rush to the colors and stick to the last.

Brave men from Wexford and bold Tipperary men

March under the flag past the cheering column.

Sligo and Galway and Wicklow and Kerry men

Are wearing the khaki as well as the green.

Grady and Gallaghers, Gibbons and Gilligans,

Dougherty, Dolans and Duffys and Doyle,

McCarthy, McCloskeys, Mulcaheys and Milligans,

Barry and Bradys and Buckleys and Boyles;

Flynns and Fitzgeralds and Foleys and Flanagan,

Quayleys and Quigleys and Quinlans and Quinns;

Larkins and Logans and Lynchs and Langanis,

Morrisseys, Murphys, McQuirks and McGinns.

True to the cause of the innermost soul of them,

Look at the service flags when they go by,

The shining red stars representing the roll of them

Are thick as the stars in a clear winter sky.

The call has rung out and they answer it loyally,

Springing to arms to the last mother's son,

Serving their country and serving it loyally.

And thus will they serve till the war shall be won!

GOOD FOR DOLAN.

For many years past, and especially during the life of Senator Tim Sullivan, it was the custom of the Tammany political leaders in New York to take their constituents—men, women and children—on an annual outing every summer, and this was one of the secrets of Tammany's hold on New York. Here in Louisville there is a growing organization of the same kind. Tom Dolan, the tobacco man who lives just across from the ball park, started a few years ago by taking the children on his square every summer to an all-day picnic, footing all the bills, and year by year his crowd increased, the whole neighborhood taking in the annual Dolan outing. Last Saturday a couple of trucks were needed to accommodate the crowd, which consisted of eighty-seven children and eighteen adults. The picnic was held at Stower's Grove and Mr. Dolan footed all the bills. Unlike the Tammany leaders, he is not in politics, but if he ever enters that field there is a following of Dolan boosters to blaze the way.

HOLY ROSARY ACADEMY.

Heenan, Prior of St. Louis Bertrand's church, delivered the closing remarks and awarded the class honors.

MACKIN'S LAWN FETE.

Monday and Tuesday Mackin Council will entertain its members and friends at a lawn fete to be held on the spacious grounds surrounding the club house. Outdoor euchre and lotto games and other amusements will be provided and refreshments will be served. There will be an abundance of prizes for both adults and all are urged to bring their friends. ONLY A LOAN.

All you are asked to do is to buy only necessary things and then loan—not give—your savings to your Government to help it fight your war. Thus you assure glorious return for your thrift.

ALLIES IN FRONT, GERMAN PEOPLE IN REAR.

DEFENDS IRISH LOYALTY.

Capt. M. J. Gallery, of the Chicago Police Department, in a letter to the editor of the World expresses the real feeling and sentiment of the Irish when he says:

As an Irishman I thank you sincerely for the attached editorial on the Irish situation appearing in your paper. You recognize the fact that the "British Government has made many blunders and between Dublin and London many scores remain to be settled," and that "valiant Irishmen all over the world are fighting to defeat autocracy." As an Irishman and a Catholic who would prefer a roaming commission in Ireland after death to the best front seat in heaven, I'll say that the Irishman who refuses to fight on the side of America is lower than the Kaiser in my estimation. We Irish are with the Allies—with all of them, from little Belgium to America. We are fighting and dying in defense of the Allies and for freedom for all little nations and all democracies, and yet because of a few agitators we are classed by unfair newspapers as "pro-German," which is a blasphemous lie. The cunning bigots, anti-Irish, the Tory Orangemen see a chance to blacken the Irish in the eyes of our best friend, America, by trying to make the American people believe that we are pro-German—something the bigots and bores do not themselves believe. Indeed the British Government has made blunders in Ireland and blunders on the battlefield, but the greatest blunder ever made, in my humble opinion, is the attempt—of the Sinn Feiners to free Ireland, and the English retaliation afterward. The excuse of the Sinn Feiners might be this: Carson and Gen. Gough rebelled against the English Government and were promoted to a Cabinet position and to General of Brigade; the Sinn Feiners rebelled against Carson and were promptly hanged. Quite a difference. Blunders can be forgiven—should be forgiven—but the bigot who says that the Irish are not with the Allies is a liar and a scoundrel, a whipped cur, a dachshund and is helping the Kaiser, his master.

WOUNDS PROVE FATAL.

Monday Mr. and Mrs. L. McClellan, residing at 1703 Maple street, received telegrams from New York bringing news that their son, Seaman George McClellan, twenty-one years old, had suffered serious injury from a gunshot wound that must have been accidental. Three months ago to the day young McClellan enlisted with the navy and was assigned to the United States Coast Guard, at Beaufort Island. The letters which have been received by the family spoke of how the seaman was enjoying the life and told of its interesting work. Mrs. McClellan on receiving the first telegram from her son, which told of her son being wounded, was making preparations to leave for New York when the second wire, announcing his death, was received. The body will be brought to Louisville for burial. McClellan was educated at Sacred Heart school and among his associates was a leader and favorite. Beside his parents he is survived by ten brothers and sisters, who are as follows: Leo, Verba, McClellan, at David Baird & Sons; Roy McClellan, machinist, Drummond Manufacturing Company; Graham McClellan, employed by D. Bowman's; Robert, Paul, Raymond, Frederick, Dorothy and Norma McClellan.

SALES OF SUGAR.

Fred M. Sackett, Federal Food Administrator, issued directions Saturday to all persons selling sugar in the State of Kentucky that the following regulations become effective at once:

Retail sales of sugar for household purposes must be limited to two pounds to city and town residents and five pounds to rural and city residents. Retail sales of sugar for canning and preserving must be limited to twenty-five pounds at one time, and then only when accompanied by a signed certificate on the Government form pledging the customer to use that particular sugar for the particular purpose of canning and preserving food.

Customers are expected to limit the use of sugar for household purposes to three pounds per month per person.

HELP SALVATION ARMY.

The Salvation Army's campaign for $250,000 in New York City was spurred by an appeal to Catholics to support the drive, which was issued by Msgr. M. J. Lavelle, pastor of St. Patrick's Cathedral and secretary to Cardinal Farley. The appeal was addressed to all Catholics of the archdiocese.

FORTY HOURS.

The Forty Hours' Devotion will begin in Holy Trinity church tomorrow morning with a solemn high mass, closing with solemn services Tuesday. The evening devotions will be held at 8 o'clock.

CUSTER'S LAST FIGHT.

An illustrated lecture on "Custer's Last Fight" will be given for the benefit of the members at the meeting of the local Knights of Columbus next Wednesday evening, and one of our American Indians will lecture on the picture.

NOW SERGEANT HOGAN.

Merlin Hogan, who was sent to Fort Riley, Kansas, with the cavalry, has been made a Sergeant and writes his local friends that instead of trying to pick the winner, as he did at Churchill Downs, he is trying to ride the winning horse in the company races out there.

HEARD THE CALL.

Attorney James S. McDonogh, of New York City, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward McDonogh, of this city and well known to many of our readers, sprang a surprise on his friends this week by joining the United States cavalry. He was sent to Fort Slocum and from there will probably be sent to one of the Western training camps.

EARNING DAILY BREAD.

Last summer one of Louisville's young business men who is fond of the thoroughbreds was visiting in Canada, and becoming acquainted with one of the horsemen at the Fort Erie race track spent his vacation by helping train the horses and most any morning could be seen leading or riding horses around the track. During the spring meeting here some of the touts who earn their daily bread by following the horses spled our young man and whatever he bet on they bet on, they having seen him at Fort Erie last summer and believed he was a trainer. For proof of this ask Will Daly.

WHERE HONOR RESTS.

Of course we are proud that when volunteers were rushing to the camps our Catholics were there in numbers greater than all the rest. We have claimed about 40 per cent of the army and navy for Catholics, who are but 20 per cent of the country's population, but as the draft goes on it is inevitable that as all classes go to the camps our percentage is going to decrease. We may in fact drop down to a few notches above our normal 20 per cent. These are the figures that our enemies will use in the future, but volunteering honors will always be ours.—Tablet.

INSPIRING SERVICES.

One of the most inspiring religious services held under the auspices of the Knights of Columbus in an American camp was the midnight mass recently celebrated at an embarkation point for the men who were about to leave for France. Word reached the Knights of Columbus that the men desired to go to confession and to receive holy communion. The chaplain immediately took his place in the confessional while a Knight of Columbus hurried to the nearby city to bring a priest to assist in this holy work.

Both of these zealous clergymen were in the confessional until almost midnight, when one left to prepare for the celebration of mass, the other remaining until all the men had been heard. Through the kindness of the commanding officer a barracks was secured in which the holy sacrifice was offered, the Knights of Columbus building being entirely too small to accommodate the throng that desired to attend. This barracks was filled to overflowing, and so quiet was it that the sentry could be heard as the patients paced his beat outside. As the Sanctus bell announced the consecration and elevation this sentry paused, reverently struck his breast and uttered the prayer: "Domine, non sum dignus." During the distribution of holy communion the men formed a line outside the barracks, passing through one door and out at another, thus preventing congestion around the improvised altar.

NEUTRAL IN IRELAND.

According to the London Daily Mail the Vatican has written to the Catholic Union disclaiming all knowledge of the Irish Bishops' manifesto against conscription. The communication says that the Vatican knew nothing about the manifesto until eight days after its publication.

ONLY COURSE OPEN.

Some day the war will be over and from the battlefield and battlefield the American heroes will come marching home. A right hearty welcome the nation will give them, and for generations their exploits will be commemorated in song and story. The homes from which the army of democracy set out will be radiant with joy on the boys' return and even those other homes athwart whose portals the shadow of death has fallen will be glorious in the light of duty done.

But we who stay at home will find that the general spirit of jubilation strikes no responsive chord in our hearts if we have failed to do our utmost for the triumph of the common cause. It is easy enough to sound the praises of those who dare to make the supreme sacrifice and the veriest coward may boast of national valor, but the test which every patriot must now stand calls for deeds, not words. No one is exempt from doing his share to win the gigantic struggle in which we are engaged and whether that share be large or small it must be wholehearted and sincere.

These are not the times to hang back and estimate nicely the pros and cons of giving—there is only one honorable course open and that is to give, to give oneself if the Government calls, and to give one's money and heartiest co-operation in whatever will make for the success of the war, if the Government does not call for our personal service at the front.

No one knows how long the world must endure the terrible scourge of this war, but even the shallowest brain will appreciate the embarrassment, not to say disgrace, which must be the lot of him who now plays the laggard's part and will therefore have no honorable answer to make to the inevitable question of the future, "What did you do to make the world safe for democracy?"—Creighton Courier.

PLANNING BIG RECEPTION.

Plans for the reception of the Most Rev. D. J. Dougherty, D. D., Philadelphia's new Archbishop, upon his arrival in that city from Buffalo were outlined at a meeting of representatives from the different parishes of the diocese, which was held at the Catholic Philopatrian Literary Institute last week. Nearly two hundred representatives were present. Each parish, it was decided, will march as a unit to a designated position on Broad street, where the parishioners will be reviewed by His Grace and the members of the diocesan and visiting clerical and lay reception committees at the cortege passes through the line of formation. The reception will take place on the evening preceding the ceremony of the solemn enthronement of Archbishop Dougherty. The Chief Marshal and his staff and the members of the various sub-committees are engaged in formulating the rules and regulations to govern the reception.

FOR WOMAN'S EYE.

Large numbers of sleeveless garments are now being made. Not one woman in ten can wear the Eton jacket to advantage. Orgrandy frocks are found admirable for our young girls, even the smallest.

Cotton voile, plain, striped and checked, is one of the new fabrics for children's wear.

For summer wear silks hold the forward place. Foulards, Georgettes and taffetas are the leaders. The sport clothes that did duty for girls between fourteen and twenty are meeting with disfavor and are not now the style.

You hear nothing more about the "corsetless" figure. Corsets are now more supple than ever before. Calico curtains are decidedly popular and help greatly numerous decorative schemes.

While silk petticoats are preferable for comfort to those of other materials, it sometimes happens that the shadow-proof variety, made of white satin, gives a greater sense of security when worn with a diaphanous frock than that of the more luxurious silk.

A smart blouse of striped dimity is cut upon tailored shirt lines, with two narrow box plaits at either side of the opening in front. At each side of these, and also separating them, are inserts of wide heavy beading. The straight rolling collar has lines of beading inset in the same fashion, and is finished by an inch-wide hem of double dimity. Smart little cuffs of alternating bands of dimity and lines of beading finish the tailored sleeves.

CLEANING COPPER.

Rub copper that needs cleaning with half a lemon dipped in salt, then wash well in warm water and polish with a soft, dry cloth.

DEATH A SHOCK.

George Hoertz, Sr., who built the Federal building and the Galt House, and who for years was a leading political figure in Louisville, died suddenly of a heart attack at his home, 4700 Southern Parkway, Tuesday morning. Mr. Hoertz was seventy-six years old and had been in rather feeble health since he retired from active business a year ago. He was up and around Monday afternoon and the stroke came without warning. Mr. Hoertz was a member of the General Building and Construction Trades Union, and was in the general contracting business with his four brothers and the Galt House and the Federal building erected. He was born in Louisville. His first wife was Miss Josephine Metz, of Louisville. By her he had seven children, all of whom survive him. They are Andrew, George Jr., Henry, Charles and Miss Margaret, Bertha and Ida Hoertz. After her death thirty years ago he married Miss Addie Snyder, of Louisville, and by her had two children, Ray Hoertz, now a soldier in France, and Mrs. Mary Coombs. Mrs. Hoertz survives him. Of his four brothers who were in business with him only ex-Senator Jacob Hoertz is living. Adam, Fred and John Hoertz were the other brothers. The funeral was held Thursday morning from St. Louis Bertrand's church.

CATHOLIC FEDERATION.

The regular monthly meeting of the Catholic Federation of Societies and Parishes was held on Thursday evening, June 13. President E. J. Cooney presiding. The meeting was unusually well attended, and after the transaction of routine business interesting talks for the good of the order were made by several of those present. A donation of $25 was made to the reform school for girls which the Government is endeavoring to locate in Louisville as part of its war programme work. How to secure a better representation at the meetings from the different parishes throughout Louisville and Jefferson county was discussed at some length and steps to that end will be taken in the near future. The Visitation Home Committee reported that while no definite date had as yet been set for the opening of the campaign in contemplation, its plans were about completed.

NOW IN CAVALRY.

George G. Welsh, one of our best known young men, is now stationed at Fort Riley, Kansas, and is a member of the cavalry. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. David Welsh, of West Breckinridge street.

TWIN CITY LEAGUE.

It was an off day for fair in the Twin City League last Sunday, only one game being played, the Hibernians winning over the Champs in a 7 to 5 game, while the K. of C. team forfeited to Vernons and Trinity forfeited to Mackin. The K. of C. players were guilty of the baby act and unsportsmanlike conduct in refusing to play because of the suspension of Bossmeyer by President Duffy, although the suspension was agreeable to Bossmeyer, who was willing to wait for the official trial of the case. Manager Bob Donnelly, of Trinity Council, says the majority of his players were unavoidably absent and he willingly forfeited the game. At a meeting of the Twin City Thursday night everything was adjusted and a full roster of the teams will be out tomorrow. Trinity plays Champs, A. O. H. plays Vernons and Mackin plays K. of C. Standing to date:

| | W | L | Pct. |
|------------|---|---|------|
| K. of C. | 4 | 1 | .800 |
| Hibernians | 4 | 1 | .800 |
| Vernon | 4 | 1 | .800 |
| Trinity | 2 | 3 | .400 |
| Mackin | 1 | 4 | .200 |
| Champs | 0 | 5 | .000 |

COLONELS AT MILWAUKEE.

The Louisville ball club will play at Milwaukee again today and tomorrow, going from there to Minneapolis and then to St. Paul. The fans will not get a peep at the new men until July 3, when the Colonels come home for a two days' stay. The dropping of Reilly was no surprise and only emphasizes the point made in these columns when Williams and Corriden were traded for Beecher and Dolan, and Reilly taken in place of the latter. It was said then that Reilly was a light hitter, averaging only .231 last season, and that Dolan should have been kept, as he would have filled the breach nicely when Roach left, and is a good hitter and smart ball player. Then again it was commented on that a player of the Corriden type was needed, one that keeps up the fighting spirit in a team, and Dolan would have filled the bill.

PEWEE VALLEY.

The stage is all set for a monster country picnic to be given on the church grounds next Wednesday for the benefit of St. Aloysius church at Pewee Valley. Rev. Edward Boes and the Executive Committee, headed by prominent men and women of the parish, have been canvassing the country for the past two weeks and it is expected that a handsome sum will be realized. This picnic will afford a delightful day's outing in the country for city people, who will be served an excellent open air dinner. There will not be a dull moment during the day or evening. Cars from the Jefferson-street station will stop at the church grounds, and returning there will be extra cars.

GREATEST INDUSTRY.

A year ago there were approximately 45,000 men engaged in the shipbuilding plants of the country. Today, under Edward N. Hurley, Chairman of the United States Shipping Board, we have a force of 300,000 in the shipyards, with an additional 250,000 working at the allied trades, and all doing their bit for one of the foremost causes that the modern world ever prayed for.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS

Late News That Will Interest Members Here and Elsewhere.

The initiation of about eighty new members gives a great impetus to Indianapolis Council.

The Knights of Chippewa Falls, Wis., recently gave a dinner for the benefit of the Red Cross.

In the K. of C. building at Camp Lewis, Wash., Bishop O'Dea confirmed twenty-two soldiers.

John H. Redding, of Denver, is serving his third term as Supreme Master of the Fourth Degree.

At the meeting and initiation of the Missouri Valley district seventy new members were received into the order.

The Knights of Lima, Ohio, have just held their most successful initiation, conferring the three degrees on a class of sixty.

With the institution of St. Stephen's Council at Lawrence, another good gain has been made in Nebraska. The new council gives much promise.

The old Telephone Company building, property at Davenport, Iowa, has been purchased by the council of that city for $15,000. It will be remodeled and used as a club house.

Fifty soldiers from Camp Shelby, accompanied by the Field Artillery band, were in the class of 100 initiated at Meridian, Miss. With the Knights they took part in the Red Cross parade.

CLOSING EXERCISES.

The fifty-eighth annual closing exercises of St. John's school will be held in St. Xavier's College auditorium next Wednesday at 8 p. m. The commencement exercises at St. John's have always been attended by large and highly appreciative audiences, and there is no reason why this year's should be an exception to the rule. The children have been carefully preparing themselves for this glad occasion and they assure their parents, relatives and friends a real treat in carrying out an interesting and instructive programme.

TRINITY COUNCIL.

Owing to Trinity Council's service flag not being completed in the promised time for unfurling as previously announced, the unfurling will take place at the meeting Monday evening. An army chaplain will deliver the address of the evening, although others will also be delivered and an entertainment rendered. Refreshments will also be served and all Y. M. I. members are invited to attend. Trinity now has eighty-five members serving the colors. On Monday, July 1, Trinity will elect two members for the Executive Committee and a Marshal to fill the vacancies caused by John L. Timmel, Paul E. Bowling and John McDonnell entering Uncle Sam's service. In a few weeks Trinity expects to reduce the age limit to sixteen years to help fill the gap caused by so many members leaving to follow democracy's flag.

FUNDS FOR RED CROSS.

Monday evening at 8 o'clock the boys and girls, twenty or more, who graduate from St. Patrick's school this year will entertain their friends and all who may be fortunate enough to come with a euchre and lotto on the school lawn at Sixteenth and Market streets. The entertainment will follow the closing exercises of the school that will be held on Sunday night. On Tuesday at 2:30 in the afternoon there will be another entertainment of like kind, but of a more patriotic nature, on the same grounds. All that may be made at this euchre and lotto will be turned over to the Red Cross, the mite of the children to help in the great work done by this noble organization for those who are fighting the battle of human freedom. The little doctors and Red Cross nurses of St. Patrick's school will be in charge on Tuesday. They will assess you only fifteen cents to play, but will take all you may give them for the Red Cross.
